LETTER FROM THE CO-FOUNDERS

Good marketing begins with better thinking.

An independent point of view, grounded in evidence and connected to action.

MARKET MIND was created by two co-founders from a simple conviction: good marketing begins with better thinking.

In a business environment defined by complexity, speed and constant change, we believe the real advantage is not doing more. It is knowing what matters, understanding why, and having the clarity to act on it.

That belief is at the heart of MARKET MIND. We bring together market intelligence, consumer understanding and strategic thinking with practical execution - helping organizations make decisions that are grounded in evidence, relevant to people and connected to measurable action.

Our ambition is to build more than a service provider. We want MARKET MIND to become a trusted source of thinking about markets, people and the decisions that connect them - and a partner that stays close to the work and the results.

01. THE MARKET IS MOVING

Marketing is becoming more complex.

The global marketing environment is more fragmented, more digital, more measurable and more difficult to navigate.

$1.30T

Global advertising spend

Global advertising expenditure is forecast to reach approximately $1.30 trillion in 2026, representing 9.1% year-over-year growth.

SOURCE: WARC, 2026

~80%

Concentrated digital spend

Almost 80% of global advertising expenditure flows through retail media, paid search and social platforms.

SOURCE: WARC, 2026

57.6%

More channels in use

Companies report increasing the number of channels they use, including digital, social selling, face-to-face and retail media.

SOURCE: THE CMO SURVEY, 2026

More channels. More data. More decisions.

> The advantage is no longer simply having access to information. It is knowing what information matters - and what to do with it.

02. THE PROBLEM IS NOT A LACK OF INFORMATION

The challenge is turning information into decisions.

Marketing investment is significant, but its value is increasingly scrutinized.

9.0%

Marketing budgets

Marketing spending represents 9.0% of company revenue and 9.6% of overall company budgets. Growth over the preceding 12 months was 1.7%.

SOURCE: THE CMO SURVEY, 2026

53.1%

Expense pressure

When profits fall short, 53.1% of executives focus on cutting expenses. Marketing expenses are cut 45.4% of the time in those situations.

SOURCE: THE CMO SURVEY, 2026

AI use in marketing has more than tripled since 2022. Companies expect AI to account for more than half of marketing activities within three years. Yet no marketing-technology activity in the survey scored above 5 out of 7 for performance. Barriers include budget, integration, bandwidth and talent.

What this tells us
Technology increases the volume and speed of information. It does not automatically increase the quality of strategic thinking.

> Data tells us what is happening. Insight helps us understand why. Strategy determines what happens next.

03. THE MIND IS CHANGING

Markets are made of people.

Markets change because people change: what they notice, what they trust, how they discover products, whom they listen to and how they decide.

88%

Trust is a purchase criterion

Edelman reports that 88% of consumers consider trust an important or critical purchase criterion, close to quality at 89% and value at 88%.

EDELMAN TRUST BAROMETER, 2026

39%

AI is part of product discovery

Salesforce reports that 39% of consumers - and more than half of Gen Z - are already using AI to discover products.

SALESFORCE CONNECTED SHOPPERS, 2025

53%

Social platforms shape discovery

53% of shoppers discover products through social platforms, up from 46% in 2023.

> The market tells us what is changing. The mind tells us why it matters.

04. MARKET × MIND

Two perspectives. One strategic picture.

A clearer view emerges when external market forces are interpreted alongside the people moving through them.

THE MARKET
External forces shaping the opportunity.

Consumers
Who is entering, leaving or changing?

Competition
Who is winning attention and why?

Culture
What values, behaviors and norms are shifting?

Categories
How are industries and boundaries evolving?

Technology
What new capabilities are changing the game?

Trends
Which signals are temporary, and which indicate structural change?

Economics
What constraints and opportunities are emerging?

Opportunities
Where is unmet demand or strategic white space appearing?

THE MIND
Internal forces shaping the response.

Perception
How is the brand or category understood?

Motivation
What drives action?

Emotion
What creates attachment, preference or resistance?

Attention
What gets noticed - and what gets ignored?

Behavior
What do people actually do?

Memory
What remains after exposure?

Beliefs
What assumptions shape choices?

Decision-making
Why does someone ultimately choose one option over another?

MARKET × MIND INSIGHT

The MARKET tells us what is happening around people. The MIND helps us understand what is happening within them. Insight emerges when the two are interpreted together.

09. HOW WE THINK

From signals to decisions.

Marketing does not begin with execution. It begins with understanding what is happening, determining what it means and deciding what deserves action.

01

OBSERVE

What is happening?

We collect and examine relevant signals across markets, categories, competitors, consumers, culture and technology.

02

INTERPRET

What does it mean?

We distinguish meaningful patterns from noise and connect external market signals with consumer behavior.

03

IDENTIFY

What matters strategically?

We clarify the central opportunity, problem, tension or decision that should shape the response.

04

STRATEGIZE

What should we do?

We translate understanding into choices around positioning, marketing, growth, communication or market action.

05

MOVE & MEASURE

What happens next?

We execute the plan, run agreed activities, track KPIs and adjust against the original objective.

> Evidence should lead to insight. Insight should lead to choices. Choices should lead to action.

10. WHAT WE BELIEVE

Marketing should create clarity before activity.

Our point of view is grounded in evidence, human understanding and deliberate action.

RESEARCH BEFORE ASSUMING.

Good strategy starts with evidence, not intuition alone.

UNDERSTAND BEFORE TARGETING.

People are more than demographic segments.

POSITION BEFORE COMMUNICATING.

Communication becomes stronger when the strategic position is clear.

STRATEGIZE BEFORE EXECUTING.

Activity without direction can create motion without progress.

MEASURE BEFORE DECLARING SUCCESS.

Performance should be evaluated against meaningful objectives.

OUR SCOPE IS DELIBERATE.

We focus on market intelligence, consumer insight, positioning, strategy, creative development, media buying, lead acquisition and performance optimization.

For specialized requirements such as website development and technical SEO, we collaborate with trusted partners.

> Evidence, but never at the expense of humanity. Data can reveal what is happening. Research can help explain why. Strategic thinking determines what to do about it.
